

Licence for accessing and using the Ulysse general specifications V1.1 and the Ulysse Technical specifications V1.1

(hereafter referred to as the "Specifications")

As of 09/06/2008, the Ulysse group consists of the following members: BOUYGUES TELECOM, FRANCE TELECOM, KEOLIS, RATP, SFR, SNCF, VEOLIA TRANSPORT and TRANSDEV (hereafter referred to as the "Ulysse Group").

Before these Specifications can be downloaded or viewed, you are invited to read and accept the terms below by clicking on the button marked "I accept".

By clicking on the "I accept" button, the person and/or entity downloading or viewing the Specifications (hereafter referred to as the "User") accepts the following terms and conditions, which constitute a contract between the User and each member of the Ulysse Group as soon as the User accepts them.

The Ulysse Group grants the User a limited, personal, non-assignable and non-transferable licence to the Specifications, including the right to download them and make a limited number of copies subject the following conditions:

- (i) all the pages of all the copies must include the copyright notice;
- (ii) the copies are reserved for employees of the User whose roles justify their being made aware of the Specifications and who have been informed of the terms of this licence;
- (iii) the Ulysse Group cannot be held liable to anyone for:
 - the use and/or publication of all or part of the specifications,
 - the accuracy of the specifications and/or their suitability for any specific needs,
 - any development that arises from them.

The Specifications remain the exclusive property of the Ulysse Group. The Specifications may not be copied, translated or divulged to third parties in their present or modified form except with the prior written consent of the Ulysse Group.

In order to ensure the ongoing technical development of the Specifications, the User undertakes to suggest to the Ulysse Group any modifications, improvements or changes of any kind he would like to see made to the Specifications.

The rights granted under this licence cannot be interpreted as conferring expressly or implicitly any rights (under the terms of a licence or by any other means) to the inventions, knowledge and intellectual property rights of Ulysse Group members that are constituted by, based on or necessarily revealed in these Specifications. The User can find useful information regarding the above mentioned Intellectual Property rights at the following URL link: <http://ulyссе.pole-tes.com/>.

The Specifications are supplied "AS-IS" and the Ulysse Group does not claim and cannot accept any liability for any errors or omissions in the Specifications.

The Ulysse Group makes no guarantees and refuses all liability with regard to the content of the Specifications, and in particular any breaches of intellectual property rights such as patents, trademarks, copyright or other intellectual property rights belonging to third parties in relation to all or part of the Specifications. On this basis, no claims and/or legal proceedings relating to the use of the Specifications can be brought against the Ulysse Group or any of its members.

In no case can any members of the Ulysse Group be held liable for any losses caused to the User or anyone else by the direct and/or indirect use of the Specifications, such as, but not limited to, losses of income, financial losses (including cases of breach of intellectual property rights) and losses of information.

This licence is governed by and interpreted according to French law. In the event of disputes about the licence, exclusive jurisdiction is granted to the Nanterre commercial court, even in cases of incidental claims, the introduction of third parties or plurality of defendants.